About Us

THE CABLE CAR

From 1957 to Today

When Narvikfjellet opened its first gondola in 1957, it was the first cable car in Northern Europe. 1995 saw a new cable car, which still can be seen in many Narvikfjellet images. Then, in early 2019, a modern cable car was opened, built in accordance with the current standards. Its opening marked a new chapter for Narvikfjellet.

The first cable car was opened on 25 May 1957, marking a new era for Narvik and Northern Europe.

The Early Years

Narvikfjellet's first cable car was a small sensation. It was the first cable car in Northern Europe to follow Central European standards, with 20 cable cars carrying 4-5 persons to 656 m above sea level, making Narvik an attractive venue for tourists as well as for alpine skiing. Narvikfjellet was on its way to become a venue for national and international skiing events. The original cable car was finally replaced in 1995 with a new Doppelmayr cable car, capable of transporting 350 people per hour.

A New Narvikfjellet

While the cable car from 1995 was an improvement over the initial one, a cable car was not unique anymore in Scandinavia. Narvikfjellet began to have higher ambitions. In February 2019, we opened our new cable car. Designed by Porsche and produced by Bartholet, the new cable car is rightfully Narvik's pride. With ten seats per gondola, and a capacity of 1600 people per hour, it is future-proof, and a base for further exciting developments. The new gondola is symbolic for a new Narvikfjellet, with a fresh and modernised approach to guest experience, and ambitions to host the Alpine World Ski Championships in 2027. Narvikfjellet and its cable car are ready.

THE GUARDIANS

Narvikfjellet Ski Patrol

Long before the first guests arrive and until long after the lifts are closed, ski patrollers, lift crew and groomers are here to ensure that everything is in place and working, pistes are in perfect shape, and that our guests are safe. Some come to work for a season, others stay for years. For some it is a job, for others part of a lifestyle of living and working in the mountains.

Without them we could not operate. They work every day of the season to ensure our guests' safety and that pistes and lifts are in shape.

Lift Crew

The lift crew is responsible for the smooth operation of the lifts and the safety and comfort of guest in the lifts and cable car. During the lift operation hours, there is always something to do. People needing assistance boarding the cabins, keeping lift cabins tidy. And during the cold winter, cables and other parts of the lift system often need to be de-iced. Ultimately, they are also responsible for evacuation, a skill they practice regularly.

Ski Patrol

Ski patrol sounds exotic and is for many a dream and ticket to ski as much as possible. In reality, the ski patrollers bear a lot of responsibility. They provide safety on the slopes, ensure that lighting and piste markings are in order, and that pistes and lifts are safe to run. Above all, they provide guest care and first aid after accidents. All are skiers at heart - and that is a good thing.

Groomers

Early in the morning and late in the night, our team of groomers goes up and down the ski slopes to groom with snow cats, to ensure perfect conditions on the pistes. Early in the season, they build the slopes for the winter. It is precision work with big machinery, and an art in itself.

RESTAURANT

Narvikfjellet's Dining Point with a View

The history of the restaurant and the cable car are closely related. In 1931, there was a restaurant called Fjellheimen on the slopes of Narvikfjellet. Today the restaurant is the heart of Narvikfjellet, and a warm and comfortable meeting place throughout the ski season from December to May, as well as the summer season from June to October.

The Narvikfjellet Restaurant is the very heart of Narvikfjellet.

During and after the War...

During the war, the building was used by German troops to store ammunition. At some point the building caught fire and burned down completely. When plans to rebuild Fjellheimen were made, the idea to move the restaurant up the mountain came up - and, in addition, to build a cable car to reach it. The idea gained popularity, and in 1957 the new mountain restaurant could be reached by Narvikfjellet's first cable car.

The Mountain Restaurant Today

Our mountain restaurant is open year-round, following the cable car opening hours. We offer a variation of simple dishes and hot/cold drinks. In addition, the restaurant offers extended menu options for groups on request. There is something for everyone - for coffee lovers, hungry skiers, and for those who simply want to come and enjoy the fantastic views. Our restaurant is also the perfect location for seminars, conferences and other events. The easiest and fastest transport to the mountain restaurant is via the cable car. The ride takes about 6 - 7 minutes from the cable car bottom station at 220 m. This is a great adventure by itself, offering panoramic views of the surrounding landscape. As an alternative for the active, one can walk up to the restaurant in 45-75 min along the "Fjellveien" gravel road.

You can find the ski center near the lower cable car station, and it is also open during the summer for ticket sales.

THE TRAIN FACTOR

When the journey becomes the destination

We admit it. Narvik is quite far from just about anywhere else. That makes it such a fascinating location. Imagine you could make the journey there a part of the experience. Narvik is connected to Stockholm and the train ride is among the most beautiful train rides you can take.

The Ofoten Railway is one of the most spectacular railways in the world.

Narvik and the Railway - a Long Story

Narvik's history is closely connected with the railway. Over 250 years ago, iron ore was discovered in Swedish Lapland. Initially, reindeer were used to transport the ore to the Norwegian coast for onward shipment. In 1903, after years of extremely hard work, the railway was finished. With more and more ore coming, Narvik grew. It is a fascinating story, and you will learn more about it when visiting Narvik. The iron ore is still coming to Narvik by train, but nowadays there is also a comfortable passenger train connecting Narvik with the Swedish capital city Stockholm.

Environmentally Friendly

If you want to limit your emission footprint, the night train is a great way to come to Narvik, starting in Stockholm or anywhere along the train line in Sweden. And when you come to Narvik, you can ski using lifts powered by renewable hydro power.

A World of Adventures Accessed by Train

Well, almost. But we can say with good confidence that the train gives you great access to hiking routes, mountain bike trails, ski tours, and other outdoor adventures in an area spanning from Narvik into Swedish Lapland.

NARVIK 2020/27

The Alpine Junior World Ski Championships

In March 2020, 500 athletes and support staff from over 40 nations came to Narvik for the FIS Alpine Junior World Ski Championship. The world looked at Narvik, and we delivered. An unforgettable event that left deep impressions for participants, organisers, and spectators.

All Eyes on Narvik

Narvik has a long experience with arranging larger and smaller alpine races. In 1992 and 1996, we held the Women's World Cup, and about twenty national championships have taken place in Narvikfjellet. In March 2020, we became the staging arena for the FIS Alpine Junior World Ski Championships, with around 500 athletes and support staff from over 40 nations. This competition marks the highlight in young athletes' careers. It is a special moment to stand at the start line, full of tension and excitement, with a view down the race track and the Ofotfjord as backdrop. The race slopes were prepared to perfection, and the atmosphere was magical. The feedback from participants and organisers was nothing but positive.

Narvik 2027

In 2018, Narvik was named Norway's applicant city for the Alpine World Championships - the world's second largest winter sports event after the Olympics. A final decision is not due until 2022, and we are both excited and humble in relation to the decision that FIS will make. Irrespective of the outcome, the developments and investments during this process will lift Narvikfjellet to high international standards, both in terms of sport events and recreational winter sports. Narvik and the rest of Norway will be ready to carry out a sustainable and memorable championship with Narvik as the host city.
